

Exploring the Practices and Challenges of Conducting Research in Philosophy for/with Children

June, 26th – June 28th, 2017, La Corrala. Madrid.

REGISTRATION FORM

Please return registrations forms to icpic.website@gmail.com by Feb 15th

Questions? Please email any questions you have to icpic.website@gmail.com

Full Name (Please print): _____

Email (Please Print): _____

Please tick the Pre-conference Research seminars you would like to register for (one or both):

- Investigating approaches to research on the practice of philosophy in educational environments.
Dates: 9:00am June 26th – 1:30-pm, 28th, 2017
Cost: 56.30 € (no payment now, payment will be from March)

- Advanced Conversations in P4C research*
Dates: 9:00am– 4:30-pm, June 28th, 2017
Cost: FREE

N.B: For those not already immersed in the field of research in P4C, the Investigating Approaches seminar is designed to provide a rich context from which to enter the Advanced Conversations seminar on the third day.*

Please note: Accommodation needs to be booked separately. For information about accommodation, go to the ICPIC website.

The following Full or Partial Scholarships are being offered through a collaboration between ICPIC, The Spanish P4C Center and UAM (Universidad Autonoma, Madrid) .

- 8 x full scholarships are being offered for the Investigating approaches to research on the practice of philosophy in educational environments seminar.
This scholarship covers the seminar fee and 3 nights shared accommodation at Luis Vives University housing (Sun. 25th – Wed. 28th).

- 16 - 22 partial scholarships are being offered for the Investigating approaches to research on the practice of philosophy in educational environments seminar.
This scholarship covers the seminar fee of 56.30€

If you wish to apply for a scholarship, please read the information below carefully, mark which scholarship you are applying for, and submit the required information with your registration. Please note that we are concerned to positively and actively increase the diversity of our P4C and ICPIC community and will therefore take this into account when allocating scholarships. If this applies to you, please indicate how you see your participation contributing to issues of diversity within ICPIC. Please be assured that this information will be kept confidential!

Scholarship Criteria:

A. 8 x full scholarships:

These scholarships cover the pre-conference seminar fee, 3 nights in a shared room at Luis Vives University housing, Breakfast lunch and dinner.

- 6 x full scholarships are open to any graduate student currently engaged in research in P4C. People receiving the scholarship are expected to also enrol in the advanced seminar. Selection will take into account having a number of different research methods represented in the preconference seminar. For these scholarships, the definition of "research in P4C" has already been determined by the institution in which the applicant is enrolled and in which their proposal has been accepted. Applicants should submit an abstract of their (university approved) research proposal* (max. 800 words containing rationale for the Research, Research questions, methodology and conceptual framework; and their year of study) with a statement explaining how far they are in their research. Please note. Once applications are accepted with ICPIC there may be further forms to complete for UAM as some of these scholarships are partially funded by the University. (*If students do not yet have a proposal, they should submit their current thoughts regarding questions they are working through and need to address in order to complete a proposal according to the same categories.)

Yes – I would like to apply for this full student scholarship.

Yes – I have included my research abstract and statement with this form

(If relevant to you) Yes – I have included a statement explaining how I see my participation contributes to the diversity of our P4C and ICPIC community

- 2 x full scholarships are open to persons who have either been engaged in P4C (community of inquiry) in their local communities or have just completed undergraduate or graduate studies in philosophy or education and are interested in the emerging field of research in P4C. (This might include, for instance, people who are between university and work, between undergraduate degrees and graduate studies, or educators who are between jobs.) Applicants should include 350 words describing their interest in coming to the seminar. Please note. Once applications are accepted with ICPIC there will be further forms to complete for UAM as this is partially funded by a University scholarship.

Yes – I would like to apply for this scholarship.

Yes – I have included my statement of interest with this form

(If relevant to you) Yes – I have included a statement explaining how I see my participation contributes to the diversity of our P4C and ICPIC community

B. Partial Scholarships (partial scholarships cover the 56.30 € seminar fee)

- 3 x partial scholarships are open to anyone coming to the ICPIC conference who has not previously been engaged in research in P4C but who would like to use the opportunity to get to know this research field. (For example, educators who might take notes on their practice, or speak at conferences about the theory and practice of P4C, but who are not doing this from within a research framework as defined below*) Applicants should include 250 words describing their interest in coming to the seminar.

Yes – I would like to apply for this scholarship.

Yes – I have included my statement of interest with this form

(If relevant to you) Yes – I have included a statement explaining how I see my participation contributes to the diversity of our P4C and ICPIC community.

- 3 x partial scholarships are open to anyone coming to the ICPIC conference who is currently engaged in research in P4C (according to the understanding of research defined below*) but not a graduate student. Applicants should submit a statement explaining the kind of research they are engaged in, how they think it will contribute to the field, and what activities they are currently carrying out in regarding this research.

Yes – I would like to apply for this scholarship for researchers.

Yes – I have included a description of my research with this form

(If relevant to you) Yes – I have included a statement explaining how I see my participation contributes to the diversity of our P4C and ICPIC community.

- A further 10 - 16 x partial scholarships are being offered to people who are currently students or unemployed (See descriptions of 'student' and 'unemployed' under the full Scholarships). These partial scholarships are offered by UAM and we are currently waiting to hear what the specific number and eligibility conditions are for these scholarships. We will know this information mid-January. If you are currently an undergraduate or graduate student, or currently unemployed, and interested in these scholarships, please keep alert for further information on the ICPIC and conference websites mid-January.

* For the purpose of ICPIC scholarships, research in P4C (whether philosophical/academic or empirical/practical) is defined as containing the following components:

1. Generating a new question - the inquiry into which has the capacity to create new knowledge or otherwise enrich a particular field.
2. Doing a 'literature review' - reading widely amongst relevant and up-to-date research literature (inside and outside P4C) in order to inform your research,
3. Using theoretical and/or empirical methods of research recognized in that field and appropriate to your question; and
4. Reporting your findings to the community of peers in that field.